Councillor Linda Buchanan Launches Mayoral Campaign for the City of North Vancouver

North Vancouver: Two-term Councillor Linda Buchanan today launched her bid to become the next Mayor of the City of North Vancouver.

“Now as never before, we need a Mayor who is focused on finding creative solutions to the complex problems that are undermining the efforts of seniors, youth and growing families wishing to stay in our community,” said Buchanan. “I’m committed to making sure we find those solutions and ensuring that everybody – everybody – has the opportunity to remain a part of our community.”

Linda was joined at her launch by dozens of friends and family, as well as by outgoing mayor, Darrell Mussatto, and six term councillor, Craig Keating. “I’m proud of what I’ve accomplished as Mayor,” said Mussatto. “Linda has been essential in helping to make those accomplishments possible and she has the values and vision to build on them.”

Citing issues of housing, transportation and affordability, Buchanan said that next mayoral term will be crucial. “We face the risk of becoming an exclusive community, not an inclusive one. We can’t solve these challenges by turning our backs on them. No is not an answer; anger is not a solution. We can do better and that will be my commitment to the people of the City North Vancouver as their Mayor.”

Civic Election Day is Saturday, October 20, 2018.
